

TARGET - Debit and Credit Card Compromise

Target Corporation announced a compromise of data, which impacts millions of debit and credit card users. (See official notice: Target's official security breach.) If you used your card at a physical Target store location(s) from November 27 - December 15, 2013 you may be subject to fraud on your account. Target reports that this compromise does not affect online activity.

If you feel you may have compromised card(s) or they are at risk:

- It would be appropriate to close your CIBM Bank debit card down immediately by contacting your local banking office.
- If you have used your CIBM Bank credit card when shopping at a Target location from November 27- December 15, contact the phone number on the back of your card for details regarding steps you should consider.
- If you hold a Target "Red Card" (connected to your checking) Target can be contacted directly at 866-852-8680 for details.

As always, we recommend you monitor your account activity for your protection. If you see unauthorized transactions or notice questionable activity, please call your local branch immediately.
